Grammar Instruction

Talk about changing verbs into nouns.

In English, you can change some verbs into nouns. You add “–er” to the end of the verb. Look at these examples.

Verb	Noun	Definition
write	writer	a person who writes
read	reader	a person who reads
dance	dancer	a person who dances

Grammar Practice

Practice changing verbs into nouns by completing the sentences.

---

1. She's a _____. She writes books about travel.
2. I'm a _____. I dance on stage three days a week.
3. Ms. Blake is a _____. She teaches English and history.
4. Bus _____ drive the same route every day.

Did You Know?

Read about bedtime stories and discuss them with your class.

Did you know:

- Adults read children bedtime stories before the children sleep.
- Bedtime stories are usually children's stories.
- Bedtime stories can be funny, happy, or scary.

Do you know any children's bedtime stories?
Try to tell the class a bedtime story.

Dialogue

Read your lines with a classmate.

Monica: Can you read me a bedtime story?

Emma: Yes. What do you want to read?

Monica: Sleeping Beauty.

Emma: We read Sleeping Beauty every night.

Monica: It's my favorite.

Emma: Okay. We will read Sleeping Beauty.

Dialogue Fill in the Blank

Read your lines with a classmate and fill in the blanks with your own answers.

Monica: Can you _____ a bedtime story?
